American Social Science Association.

The association was founded Oct. 4, 1865 as the American Association for the Promotion of Social Science; in 1869 the name was changed to American Social Science Association; and on Jan. 28, 1899 the association was incorporated by act of Congress. In 1912 the association organized as one of its departments the National Institute of Social Sciences. In 1921 the association, feeling that the institute had virtually taken over its principal field of activity, elected no further officers. When the institute learned upon application, that Congress no longer granted Federal charters, it contacted those association officers still in power to consent to giving the institute the association's charter through conthat it might be an adequate supplement at the present time, all older the individual numbers 51-60 are numbered "vol. XVI," the earlier years being considered as v. 1-15. Beginning with January 1914 the Bulletin became a bimonthly publication, the consecutive numbering of the issues was discontinued, and the volumes follow a regular sequence as v. 17, etc.

No. 37, Jan. 1910, comprises "Decennial of the New York zoological park. MCXIX" containing historical sketches of the New York zoological society and of the Zoological park by Madison Grant, W. T. Hornaday, C. W. Beebe and R. L. Ditmars. There is another publication bearing cover-title "Decennial of the New York zoological park. MCXIX," arranged and illustrated by E. R. Sanborn, which did not appear in the Bulletin series.
Vol. 31, no. 1, Jan./Feb. 1928, commemorates "A quarter-century of
